THE FUTURE OF FIRES

LEWIS - LINDIS - McKENZIE AND THE CARDRONA COOKER

Built in New Zealand for our unique conditions - Rugged Robust and Reliable.

ENVIRONMENTALLY FRIENDLY

The Lewis, Lindis and McKenzie fires meet the required New Zealand standards for emission control – giving you an awesome range of environmentally friendly options to choose from. We have our own test facilities and invest heavily into research and development because we believe in doing the right thing for the environment, and our customers.

SAFETY FEATURES

The Southern Series is mainly a convectional stove – it has an inner and outer skin whereby air from the room flows between the surfaces, thus becoming hot and efficiently heating the room. This Double Skin feature ensures the outer skin stays relatively cooler than a full radiation stove (ie. Pot belly), and is therefore a safer option.

REDUCE HEATING COSTS

The wood fire is still the most affordable form of home heating. Warmington's fires are designed to heat large spaces with a maximum heat output of approx. 15-25 kw when using dry, seasoned wood. A double burning system that heats by both convection and radiant method, means these fires can be used for cooking and, with the option of various wetbacks and hot water boosters, ensures you will not only have hot water during a power cut, but enjoy savings on your power bills as well.

EASY TO INSTALL

Installation and construction of the flue system must comply with AS/NZZ 2918. For full dimensions and installation details, please check our website www.warmington.co.nz for current specifications.

CARDRONA COOKER

The Cardrona is a heater/oven/stove and is ideal for New Zealand's rural homes with high heat output and large cooking oven. Wetbacks can be fitted as hot water boosters to reduce heating costs throughout the winter months.
